SEARCH FOR BRISTOL MAN WANTED FOR SHOOTING ANOTHER

Police of County, Borough and State in Hunt for William Kline

STOPS AT HOME HERE

Then Leaves On Foot As Flat Tire Makes Auto Useless As Means of Escape

A county-wide search is being made for a Bristol man and his companion who are wanted in connection with the shooting of a resident of Buckingham Saturday evening.

The two hunted by Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, State Policeman Davey of the Doylestown barracks, Bristol police and other officers of the law, are: William Kline, colored, 127 Wood street, Bristol; and a colored man named Chapman, whose full name and address are unknown to police.

The injured man is Thomas Still, colored, Buckingham, who is alleged to have been shot in the back by Kline at Still's home.

The meagre story which police have been able to gain is that Kline, who is on parole in a case involving the theft of an automobile of a Bristol man, accompanied by Chapman, drove to the Still home last evening. The belief was expressed by Still that the two came to "settle" for an alleged fight a few weeks ago, in which Kline was said to have come off second best at the hands of Still. When Still refused to accompany Kline and Chapman for a ride, Still states he was shot, the weapon he believes being in the hands of Kline. The two men made a getaway.

Shortly after the altercation took place, Kline drove up to his home here in his roadster. Evidently recognizing the automobile of Detective Russo, which was approaching, Kline is said to have made a get-away on foot. Shortly after, Russo found the Kline car in front of the place, one tire being flat. Throughout the night the place was kept under surveillance, and the search continued for both Kline and Chapman.

Still was treated by a physician at his home, his injury consisting of a flesh wound in the back.

STORY OF WILLIAM SELIG, LAST OF MOVIE PIONEERS

Although the "father" of more innovations in the film industry than any other single person, William Nicholas Selig is known to few present day "movie" fans. His spectacular part in the growth of the cinema is told in a series written by an International News Service staff correspondent.

By ED LABOWITZ
International News Service Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, Calif., May 6.—(INS)—Production of the first motion picture drama, the first animal picture, the first feature length film, the first historical film and the first serial, can all be credited to one man—the real pioneer of film ventures for nearly half a century—William Nicholas Selig.

Selig, who started with less than a shoestring, built up an enormous fortune, only to see it ebb slowly away as the result of experimental investments, is still active in the picture business and is now associated in a play brokerage firm in Hollywood.

In 1893 at Dallas, Tex., Selig, then traveling with a road show, chanced to visit a fair and for the first time witnessed Thomas Edison's sensational "peep machine."

The contraption held Selig spellbound. "I could see the possibilities Edison's machine afforded," Selig said as he realized the incident which marked the turning point of his life, "why couldn't those films be thrown on the wall or a sheet, and why couldn't a hundred persons see it at one time instead of one person, I thought."

"The more I thought of the idea, the better I liked it. I made up my mind that I would build my own camera and projecting machine. But I was not the only one that thought the idea was good for before I could obtain patents, Edison and others were renting films and the 'nickelodeons' were springing up like mushrooms in vacant stores all over the country."

THREE LOCAL HORSES CAPTURE MAJOR PRIZES

Big Crowd Thrilled at Fourth Annual Spring Horse Show

A VERY FINE PROGRAM

Despite the disagreeable and threatening weather a large crowd saw three Bristol horses capture the major prizes in the fourth annual spring horse show held on the Laing Estate, yesterday, under the auspices of the Bristol Riding Club.

"Cointreau", bay mare owned by Mrs. George Hussey, with Parke M. Wetherill up, won two firsts in the hunters' classes, while Dr. Edward J. Laing's bay mare, "White Boots", with Miss Frances Blanche riding, carried off first prize in the hunters and jumpers class against a large field; second in model hunter class, and third in the pleasure horse class; fourth in working hunter, and another second in jumping class for club members.

Harry B. Hanford's gelding, "Over There", took first prize trophy in the working hunter class, and second in the hunter all-weight class. During one of the jumping events "Over There" stumbled and fell going over one of the hurdles and threw Mr. Hanford to the ground, giving him a nasty fall.

In the steeplechase race, over a hazardous seven furlong course, "Sonny" Heligus up on Mrs. H. D. De Marlow's "McLaughlin", gave the spectators a real thrill with his marvelous horsemanship and superb riding. In this event five horses started and at the first brush jump, in a mix-up, this little colored lad rode past the hurdle.

Realizing his mistake he swung around and took the jump while the rest of the field were speeding away ahead, trailing badly at the first turn around the course. Heligus brought his mount on to win one of the most exciting finishes ever seen in Bristol.

"Clay Pigeon", with L. Manger up, captured second money, with "Blink", a J. Morrow entry, placing third, with Bobby Brewer riding.

"Reason Why", another J. Morrow entry, in this race had a 12-year-old Croydon lad named Jesse Rogers up. This youngster, who is a pupil of Dr. E. J. Laing, gave a good account of himself, bringing his mount in close to the winners. So impressed was Mr. David Rogers O'Dell, Ivyland, with young Rogers that he hired him to ride for his stables.

In the five-gated saddle horse class it was a contest between "Snippy", owned by Mrs. Lloyd Reeves, and "Bean King" owned by George Marker, the judges had difficulty selecting the winner which eventually was won by "Snippy".

The saddle horse class was won by "Sun Eclipse" owned by Helen Cullen of Philadelphia, and the model saddle class by "Solitude" owned by Miss Jane L. McCauley, also of Philadelphia, while the pony class was won by Delchester Bounce, owned by Carlotta Herkness, of Meadowbrook.

Judges for the various events were saddle horses and ponies, Frank Connors of Southampton, for the hunter and jumper events; Welch Stewardbridge, of Haboro, steeplechase steward, and judges were: David O'Dell, Ivyland; Sidney H. Hirst, Philadelphia, and John Halliday, of Santa Monica, California.

Edwards Goes To Chair

By William J. Kelly
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

Rockview Penitentiary, Bellefonte, May 6.—(INS)—Stern of face and with no outward emotion, except for a slight trembling of the lower lip, Robert Allen Edwards, 22, walked to his death in silence here today for the "American Tragedy" slaying of his unwanted sweetheart—Freda McKecknie, 27.

His "steel nerves" carried him bravely over the 20 paces between his cell and the chair in which he died at 12.34.30. Bobby looked straight at the prison chaplain as he sat in the chair at 12.31. Just before the first and only bolt of 2,000 volts struck his body, he heard the chaplain intone:

"May God have mercy upon your soul."

Three and one-half minutes later his debt to society had been paid. He met his Maker with a brave heart, the Rev. Thomas Hughes of the Wilkes-Barre Baptist Church which Bobby attended, stated:

"He had sinned but he had asked God's forgiveness," Rev. Hughes said. "God always forgives those who ask."

"The Lord is my Shepherd," Chaplain C. F. Lauer uttered as he walked into the death chamber ahead of the condemned youth.

Bobby's eyes, sunk deep in his head, the hair of which was closely cropped, looked straight at him.

"He leadeth me beside the still waters," continued the chaplain.

ARREST TWO TAP-ROOM OWNERS FOR VIOLATIONS

One Man at Morrisville is Charged With Writing Numbers in Place

ONE HAD SLOT MACHINE

Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo made two arrests Saturday evening as he paid visits to tap-rooms and other public places in lower Bucks county, when a survey was made in an effort to learn what proprietors were selling alcoholic beverages to minors.

Matthew Lambert of the Wayside Inn, Cornwells Heights, was taken into custody when a slot machine was found on the premises. At a hearing before Justice of the Peace James Guy in the municipal building, Lambert was fined $17.50.

A second arrest was made by Detective Russo, Saturday, when he stated he found Joseph M. Wildman writing numbers at his place of business in Morrisville. Wildman operates a tap-room, pool-room and cigar store in Morrisville, and according to the Bucks county detective not only were numbers found in the man's possession, but Wildman was engaged in writing some when Russo entered. Wildman was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Neal Nolan at Morrisville, and released under $500 bail for a further hearing Wednesday evening.

There was spirited bidding and the property was sold for $7150. This includes about six acres of Silver Lake in addition to the developed portion, in Lower Makefield Township.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Draber, Wilson avenue, were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Doughty, Philadelphia.

SHE OF THE CURVES

Of course, it's no one's business whether Mae West has one husband or a dozen or none. Or whether Frank Wallace married a Mae West some time in a distance so remote as to make him uncertain of the exact year. Or whether Mae was just a couple of other girls or whether she was the original Dionne quintuplets and so entitled in a legal way to at least five husbands.

Still, the public does like to concern itself about inconsequential things. It usually gives more heart-felt interest to a rare little piece of gossip about someone it knows than it does to the rise of the latest dictator. Once upon a time a Rockefeller, passing a plate for the Sunday collection in a New York church, stubbed his toe, or so it was related; and the public talked about it for a week.

And so it will be about the Lady of the Curves, who continues to protest these tales of early marriage. Well, if anyone knows Mae ought to know—and she says she never was a drinking girl and so couldn't have done such a thing in a moment of benumbed thoughtlessness. But the public will read and it will talk. It, too, must have its little fling. Life would be awfully sober for a lot of things that really do not concern them.

Incidentally, what is the name of Miss West's next picture and what is the date of its premiere?

AIN'T SCIENCE WONDERFUL

A Mr. Midgley, chairman of the board of the American Chemical Society, opened its recent convention in New York with a prospectus of chemical accomplishment for the next century. By 2035, he said, we shall have chickens the size of pigs, eggs the size of footballs, hogs the size of cattle, and bulls the size of mastodons.

He said we also shall have interplanetary travel, conventions by television, a two-hour working day, a cure for cancer, no more colds or influenza, indefinite length of life and no more wars.

As for the farm problem, he added, "the chemist will eliminate the bureaucracy that is otherwise necessary to maintain crop curtailment by increasing the amount of ozone in the earth's atmosphere, thereby limiting the ultra-violet radiation available for agriculture to the amount required."

Without delving any further into the wonders of this platform, it may be suggested that Mr. Midgley needs only a slight advancement of the date for its realization, a microphone and the indispensable public quarrel with General Johnson to have the niftiest basis yet concocted for a third-party movement in 1930.

Details of the Goering honeymoon are lacking, but we imagine the first week has been put in telling Baby what the medals were for.

Ely Culbertson accepts his nomination as New York's Public Bore No. 1 with no sign of perturbation. Maybe he isn't vulnerable.

Three escaped elephants wandered into an English market and consumed great quantities of soap. We'd as soon eat alligator pearls.

Our cheese spokesmen contend that domestic limburger now equals any on earth. It no longer faints in the presence of imported rivals.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol, Oct. 30, 1873. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

Week Ending October 30, 1873

Last Monday night a burglar entered the cabin of a canal boat at this place, and after assaulting the captain's brother, Mr. Jeremiah Latess, with a black-jack, proceeded to ransack the cabin for a large sum of money, which he was supposed to have received that day, but only succeeded in getting $16 in money and a suit of clothes valued at $45. Suspicion pointed to a darkey named Charles Williams, who is said to belong to Flemington, N. J., and on Tuesday morning he was arrested by Constable Pettit, but managed to escape, and up to the time of our going to press he had not been recaptured.

Arthur Hawk, of Doylestown, met with a rather singular accident on Saturday, by which he sustained injuries of a painful, but by no means of a serious character. He was playing with his niece on the stone wall in front of his father's residence, when she playfully gave him a push. He fell over into the turnpike just as a wagon with two horses attached was passing. He fell under the horses' feet and before they could be stopped one of them kicked him in the back.

On Saturday night a fire broke out in a stable belonging to George A.

Cooke, of New Hope, in this county. The building and a large portion of its contents were consumed. The fire also spread into the lumber yard of T. T. Eastburn, adjoining, destroying a large amount of lumber. Mrs. Ely, widow of ex-Senator Ely, resided nearby. Being awakened by the alarm at the sight of the flames she dropped dead from fear.

The first number of the Echo, published at Hulmeville, by W. H. Johnson, has been received. It is an amateur paper, is published monthly, and will not contain any local news. We wish the new enterprise every success.

Dr. H. Pursell has inaugurated specie payment in Bristol. All persons making purchases at his drug store will receive change in silver.

Last Sunday, Mr. Jesse Rubinkam, of Warwick, went to church, and left the house in charge of his hired man. The man getting tired of his charge "vamosed the ranch" and with him took $50 in green-backs. Mr. Rubinkam's wife's gold watch and hair chain; the chain was much valued, being made of the hair of a friend now dead. Nothing has been heard from the robber.

Yesterday morning at half-past five o'clock, as Mr. Ross Blyler and two girls named Lydia Smith and Matilda Steinbach, were driving from Bridesburg to Frankford, their wagon was struck by the fast paper train from New York bringing the New York morning papers to Philadelphia. The wagon was demolished, the horse killed, and Mr. Blyler and Miss Steinbach so badly injured that they died in a short time. Miss Smith was also severely injured, but she will probably recover.

Friday morning last, a Mr. Maxwell, a master floor layer, whose men are employed upon Dr. Rousseau's new house at the corner of Cedar and Mulberry streets, fell from a ladder to the floor, striking his head and knocking him senseless. He was removed to Dr. Rousseau's present residence, where he lingered in a very critical condition until Saturday evening, when he was removed to his home in Philadelphia, where he is slowly recovering.

Coal has been discovered in the excavation of the N. E. P. R. R., on the farm of Mrs. Luff, a short distance above the street, near Warmaster. It seems to resemble bituminous coal, and is ignitable with a match.

We have heard of the pumpkins of "Old Pumpkin Town"—that weigh so much as to break wagons down—but one of the finest and largest we have ever seen, is that raised by Mrs. Martha M. Turner, of this borough, which will weigh at least seventy-five pounds.

NEWS BRIEFS

PITTSBURGH — (INS) — For the first time in the history of the United States Court in Pittsburgh, women have been drawn for jury service. Those summoned will be examined for the May term of court.

There were 100 names of women of the 615 names in the jury wheel. David L. Starr and Mrs. Gertrude Berger, clerk of the court, both jury commissioners, drew the names.

Judges of the court recently ruled women would be accepted as jurors. Facilities in the new federal building make this possible, it was explained. The ladies didn't have separate places in which to powder their noses and sleep in the old building.

POTTSVILLE — (INS) — Three plants of a large factory in Schuylkill County are rapidly completing the largest peace-time order for army shirts. A total of 1,248,000 soldiers' shirts has been manufactured since the first of the year by the plants which are situated in Pottsville, Minersville and Mahanoy City.

"THE COLD FINGER CURSE"

by EDWIN DIAL TORGERSON

CHAPTER XXIX

Montigny rode south on the subway, for it was not crowded at this hour. A discarded tabloid—tomorrow morning's newspaper—caught his eye in the vacant seat next to him. Its front page bore likenesses of Violet Elderbank and Glenn Thurber. Its headlines proclaimed: NEWS MAN, HELD IN GEM SLAYING, INVOKES "COLD FINGER CURSE."

Glenn Thurber, from his cell in the Tombs, the captions further made clear, predicted disaster for the despoilers of the murdered Mrs. Elderbank.

Montigny read it avidly. He had not supposed that Thurber would be permitted to carry out his plan, but Inspector McHenry evidently saw no harm in the article and others of the series promised.

The story was able done. In it Thurber had traced the old superstition of the underworld which maintained that persistent ill-luck would cling to jewels taken from the body of a woman, dead or alive, but most terrible ill-luck, comparable to a curse, if the woman were dead when the "cold finger work" was performed.

A wise thief of the lower stratum, Thurber set forth, would never take jewelry by force from a woman. If it were a hold-up, if she were ordered to stand and deliver, and handed over the gems voluntarily, why, that was different. But to tear bracelets, rings or necklaces from the body of a woman was to court relentless, inevitable disaster. No professional crook would do it. That was why, in the sage opinion presented by Thurber as "one on the inside," the Elderbank theft and murder could not have been the work of thugs of the underworld.

The article enumerated instances after instance in which the "cold finger curse" had proved operative—some one had furnished Thurber clippings from a newspaper "morgue" with which to replenish his facts.

Montigny, quite pleased, folded the newspaper and put it in his pocket. Why waste two cents? As yet, he reflected whimsically, he did not have the eighty-five thousand dollars.

He walked the short distance from the subway to the Elderbank residence in Waverly Place. There were no sounds of merriment to-night, either from this house or the adjoining establishment affectionately known as Staggers Inn. The neighborhood was soberly somnolent.

Montigny did not bother to arouse Cupples, but let himself in quietly with the key which had been given him. It had been arranged that Cupples was to "sleep in" at the Elderbank home, instead of the maid, Elsie Seever, was permitted to go home to Harlem. The house was under surveillance, as was the adjoining one. Somewhere across the street were the shadowy assigned to the job by Sergeant Darden. One had taken the place of the uniformed private watchman employed to patrol the block. Workmen had been tearing up the street during the day in one of those perennial tasks of excavation without which New York would not be New York. One of those workmen, Montigny happened to know, was a detective. His night-shift confreres had found other methods of shadowing.

Montigny paused in the dimly lighted hall and listened. It was a fraction of his never to make any more noise at any time than he had to make, and tonight there might be extra virtue in quietude.

The house seemed sunk in utter solitude. Having been recently renovated from top to bottom it was free of the small vagrant sounds that older houses have—the creaking of contracting timbers or rusty hinges of doors uneasy in a draft, or the nocturnal sallies of mice.

There came to Montigny presently, however, a minute, unwanted sound, persistent and regular, from the basement. It was a metallic clicking, as of some legitimate appliance perhaps, but Montigny listened in puzzlement, trying to diagnose it.

He crept to the back stairs. The sound continued, with monotonous, almost telegraphic regularity. Telegraphic—it was that! Dot-dash-dot-dash-dot. dot-dot-dash-dot-dot-dot.

Montigny moved noiselessly down the back stairs. The sound avar-

ently issued from the front of the basement, the billiard room in which Cupples had established himself with a cot. The basement hall was unlighted, and Montigny drew out his flashlight. Unexpectedly his arm encountered an unexpected obstruction at the foot of the stairs, a newel post surmounted by an ornamental lamp, now unlighted. His flashlight fell with a clatter.

The methodical clicking ceased. The billiard room door opened as Montigny advanced, and Cupples stood there in the shaft of light. "Who is it?" he called sharply. "It is I," said Montigny. "Why don't you keep your halls lighted?" "Oh, sorry, sir," Cupples was instantly apologetic. He snapped the light, "Insurance." There was some truth in this signal mentality, for Mr. Hovarty did make a specialty of insurance, though in a manner with which the insured section of the public was not at all conversant.

On Wednesday morning, September the ninth, Mr. Hovarty, alone in his office—he did not employ a stenographer—answered the telephone, saying:

"All right. Hovarty speaking." The voice on the telephone was crisp, staccato, knife-edged. The words fairly leaped into Hovarty's ear. A machine-gun radio broadcaster could not have spoken more rapidly or with greater clarity.

"All right, Hovarty, don't open your mouth again, except to say

There was an instrument, as Cupples had suspected. It was a detachable telephone, provided with a cord and plug.

hall switch. "I did not know you had returned, sir." "I noticed you did not," Montigny entered the billiard room and look about searchingly. "I heard you telephoning."

"Me, sir? Telephoning?" Cupples's tone was thick with surprise. Why, there is no telephone down here, sir.

There was none visible at the moment. "You have connections all over the house," said Montigny sternly. "You plug in on the baseboard there. Where did you put the instrument?"

"Instrument, sir? Why, let me see. Why, now that you mention it, sir, I believe there is one, in the pantry."

There was an instrument, as Cupples had suspected. It was a detachable telephone, provided with a cord and plug.

"But I haven't been using it, sir," said Cupples earnestly. "You heard some one next door, perhaps. I haven't heard a sound in the house except perhaps the clanking of the radiators. The janitor made a fire in the furnace, sir. The nights are getting chilly."

"Decidedly chilly," said Montigny grimly. "The question I want to ask you, Cupples, is this: Where did you learn the Morse code?"

"The what, sir?" "The Morse code." Cupples was abashed and puzzled. "I am sorry, sir," he said. "I never to confess it, sir—but I don't even know what the Morse code is!"

Mr. Victor Hovarty was a very private detective indeed.

On the door of his single office in a lower Broadway office building he had only the legend: "V. Hovarty."

Do You Hate To Meet People?

SOME of us are so bashful that whenever a new face appears before us we mentally duck away! Maybe it isn't shyness so much as simply not realizing how very interesting new acquaintances can be.

Some people are shy about new foods too. One family we know has had pork and beans every Saturday night for ten years, and they see no reason for changing!

How much more interesting life—and dinner!—would be for that family with a new kind of meat, a vegetable prepared some other way, a new style in dessert. New foods—new faces—brighten our days and help make living an exciting game.

Look through the advertisements in this newspaper today for new ideas in foods. They're here, in abundance . . . recipes, tried and tested . . . favorite platters of favorite people . . . exotic dishes from exotic lands.

The advertisements bring you up-to-the-minute news of many things. Read them regularly. Form the habit of getting the most out of life—and the most for your money.

Bristol Rope Climber Breaks Nat'l Record

Bristol high school, was one of 13 entered in the 25 foot rope climb. The other 12 were all college students. His time for the 25-foot climb was 6.4 seconds, the national record being 7.2. The next best time in Saturday's events was seven seconds flat. Hermon Dock, of Dartmouth College, conducted the event.

The medal presented to the Bristol boy wonder bears on one side the wording "National Athletic Association of the United States" and on the reverse "Champion Rope Climb 1935." The medal is suspended by a red, white and blue ribbon from a bar on which is the word "Championship."

If young Pieo places either first, second or third next year in the same meet, he will be given a try-out for the Olympics. This is his first attempt in any competition, he having first attempted the rope climb this year, the first term such was inaugurated at Bristol high school.

LAMBERTVILLE RALLY IS NIPPED BY MORRISVILLE

MORRISVILLE, May 6.—A Lambertville A. A. rally was cut short in the last inning as the Morrisville "Reds" topped the boys from Jersey by the score of 8-5. Morrisville made nine hits to the losers' seven.

GEORGE SCHOOL KEEPS VICTORY RECORD CLEAN

George School trackmen continued their series of unbroken victories here Saturday in their own invitation track meet. The Georgians tallied 45 points to 25 for Wenonah Military Academy, their nearest rivals.

Bordentown Military Institute, Trenton High School, and Hun School of Princeton, followed in that order. B. M. I. registered 29½ points; Trenton High, 19; and Hun, 15. Rutgers Prep, with 10, and Solebury School, with 7½, completed the scoring. The meet was inaugurated in 1932, and George School has been an annual winner.

Although they didn't figure as threats to top the team championship, Bordentown Military, Trenton High and Hun School all fared well. Trenton's Red and Black banners were carried to two first places, further proof to the contention that track is fast developing at the Trenton institution.

Clyff Tomlinson, Trenton High's ace sprint swimmer, took one of his school's firsts when he climbed over the bamboo at 19 feet eight inches, in the pole vault. Buddy Obyrs, a member of the relay team which a week ago took second place in the Penn Relays, captured first in the half mile, being timed in 2:11, good considering the weather conditions, and also crossed the line in second place in the 440-yard dash.

Warner Lukemire, a teammate of Obyrs, followed him in the quarter mile sprint, finishing third. Smith, of Hun, was fourth.

Hun registered a first when husky Walt Shinn, versatile athlete, captured top honors in the discus with a heave of 118 feet, 4 inches.

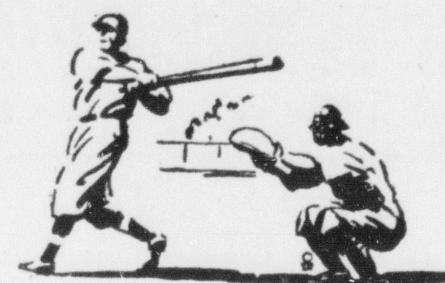

Shinn also took first in the shot put with DeAngelo, of Trenton, second. Jones, of Trenton, finished third in the high jump.

HE HATED AUTOS

PRAGUE—(INS)—Alois Mensik, hates motorcars any way. Mensik, a 35-year-old clerk, was arrested after he had become so enraged with the noise cars made that he kept a special look-out for particularly bad offenders, took their numbers, and then toured the parking places of the city looking for them. When he found one he slit the tires with a pen-knife. Then he took to shooting with a revolver at cars as they passed.

LOOSE PLAYING MARS EDGELY-HIBS FRACAS

Loose playing marred the opening of the Delaware River Baseball League at Edgely yesterday. The Edgely Braves took the measure of the Hibernians, 15-9, after giving the Bristol team a 6-0 handicap in the first frame.

The Braves made a total of thirteen safe blows two more than the Hibs and each club made five errors. The misplays aided both clubs during the rallies in the first and fifth innings. In the initial canto, ten runs crossed the plate, six by the Hibs and four for the ultimate winners.

The bat of "Danny" Hines played a prominent part in the victory of the Edgelyites. Hines stepped to the plate five official times and delivered a blow safely four times, missing on his final attempt at the plate. "Johnny" Dougherty, lead-off batter for the victors, scored four runs.

"Tiny" Harrison got three out of three for the losers to lead them with the stick but he played poorly afield and his three errors were very damaging against the Hibernian pitchers. "Billy" Leigh was the fielding star, taking infield throws in all positions. He also made three hits.

TWO TACONY TEAMS WIN BOCCE LEAGUE OPENING

By T. M. Juno
The two Tacony teams took the lead in the opening games of the Penn-Jersey Bocce League by winning four of the five games scheduled in the league competition yesterday. The United Independent Club beat the St. Ann's bocce team, 4-1, and the Tacony Republican Club took a like number from the Riverside Bocce Club. In the other match play, the Bristol Democratic Club nosed out the Bristol Bocce Club, 3-2, on the Sons of Italy court.

The only victory chalked up by the St. Ann's team was when "Pete" Accardi and "Pete" Indelicato bested Joe DeAngelis and Nick Machinio, of Tacony, 16-14, in a closely played game. In the other matches the scores were: 16-6, 16-6, 16-7, 16-8. The two St. Ann's leaders, Frank Rich and Gabriele Emilio played poorly against the Tacony aces, Sante Gabriele and Sam Altomare in the fourth match of the afternoon.

The Democratic Club came from behind to snatch the majority of the games from the Bristol Bocce Club. The first two games went to the Bocce Club when Marco Cicanti and Herman Petrizzi swamped Octavio Luzzi and Gaetano Asta, 16-6 and Joseph DeLuca and Joseph Trotto beat Amedeo Antonelli and Sebastian Terrano, 16-12. The Joseph Pica-Enrico Volponi dropped their fray to Mario Mari and Bartoli Ligari, 16-7 and in the last two games which also went to the Democrats, Vincenzo Gagnati and Luigi Tosti beat Peter Peterpaulo and John Stranieri, 16-9 and Alfred Caucci and Joseph Valenti bested John Diodati and Julio Scanello, 16-10.

The next games of the circuit will be scheduled for Sunday, May 12.

POSTPONE GAME

The game scheduled between the Newportville A. A. club and the Edgely Braves has been postponed again until Friday.

PLAN LUNCHEON

A covered dish luncheon will take place at the home of Mrs. David Gallagher, River Road, Torresdale Manor, Wednesday at 12.30 o'clock. The affair is a benefit for the Andalusia-Torresdale branch of the Needlework Guild.
